A MESSAGE FROM DAVID LEADBETTER

Throughout my years of teaching, I've had the opportunity to work with players of all ages, but helping juniors to be their best has always been uniquely rewarding.

In 1992, the Leadbetter Junior Golf Academy was born, attracting young players from all over the world whether college or professional golf was their aim. Many world-class players came out of the program, including the likes of Paula Creamer, Jessica Korda, Nelly Korda, Julieta Granada, Sean O'Hair, Chen Tsung Pan, and Emiliano Grillo. In fact, many of today's junior golf academies took direct inspiration from our original model, with a vast number of the world's top junior golf coaches graduating through the Leadbetter Instructor certification program.

By reason of popular demand and my desire to once again revolutionize the junior golf program space, I was excited to officially launch the Golfzon Leadbetter Junior Golf Academy Headquarters in Orlando Florida at our state-of-the-art facility in the Summer of 2017. With our 20 years of experience training Juniors, my team and I have designed a holistic program to guarantee that young players reach their full potential in golf as in life.

The Leadbetter name has been synonymous with instructional excellence for more than three decades. We have helped professionals win dozens of PGA and LPGA tournaments, including 25 major championships, and helped thousands of amateurs enjoy the game.

We have always focused the bulk of our attention on helping young golfers to achieve their dreams. We look forward to utilizing our unparalleled knowledge and expertise to help your child do the same.

FULL-TIME PROGRAM OVERVIEW

Every student attending GLA will undergo a full week of screening and assessments to allow David and his team of coaches to create a personal development plan and complete short and long-term goal setting. Regular reports will be generated to track progress and keep parents and college recruiters involved.

GLA will offer instruction and monitored practice each week, combining individual technical instruction plus group training, on-course play, tournament preparation, mental coaching, and a personal fitness program. GLA coaches will coordinate and accompany students to the top junior tournaments, as well as arrange college visits and placements.

A typical day will consist of academic work in the morning at Windermere Preparatory School, followed by lunch and transportation to the Academy for training. In keeping with David's holistic approach, every session will begin with a dynamic warmup before students begin either individual instruction or group training. Students will spend several hours on-course each week playing and simulating tournament situations on the three golf courses available at Reunion Resort and Golf Club.

GLA has a dedicated sports psychologist, a mental performance coach, and fitness and biomechanics performance experts who will be offering regular assessments and support. David will provide his personal input and coaching to each student during the program.

In addition to holistic golf instruction, GLA will provide regular 'life skills' sessions with guest speakers that include professional tour players, college recruiters, sports performance experts, business professionals, and more.

Toward the end of each week, coaches will tailor the program to tournament preparation, including strategy sessions and equipment checks. In the evenings and spare time, students will be encouraged to maintain a balanced life with team outings to local PGA Tour and LPGA Tour events, visits to Orlando's famous theme parks as well as the pools, spa, and leisure facilities at the Reunion Resort.

PLAYER DEVELOPMENT PHILOSOPHY

GLA will have a limited intake to ensure each student receives maximum time with coaching staff. This small, intimate group will allow for personal instruction and a focus on the individual while still offering the benefits of team training and high-level competition.

Grounded in David's holistic golf philosophy, Leadbetter students will develop the skills to own every aspect of their game. It's built from a fundamental understanding of swing techniques with the aid of technology and how the body works in synchronization with the arms and club.

Layered onto these foundations are mental conditioning, the art of scoring, course strategy, communication skills and personal development. Provided that the student has the correct attitude, all these elements combined will guarantee success.

Whatever the ultimate goal of our GLA students—becoming a tour professional, gaining entry to a U.S. university or otherwise—the personal attention offered by David's coaching staff and the teaching staff at Windermere Preparatory School will ensure they are suitably prepared.
